Statement of Objects and Reasons.

In order to confer on holders of land in Mysore on which rubber can be grown, the benefits of the Inter-Governmental Rubber Agreement of 1934, continued in 1939, to which the Government of India has also acceded, the Mysore Rubber Control Act, 1941, was passed in Mysore on the lines of the corresponding British Indian Act.

Section 45 of the British Indian Act as amended recently empowers the Government in certain circumstances to suspend either indefinitely or for a stated period all or any of the provisions of the principal Act. If there should be such a suspension in British India, power should be available under the Mysore Act also for a similar suspension of corresponding provisions of the Mysore Act, since the two Acts are complementary to each other.

As the matter was urgent, an emergency measure was promulgated in February 1943, to give such a power to the Government.

It is considered necessary to continue these provisions for some more time and this Bill has therefore been brought forward.
